3rd Annual Ko'olauloa Battle of the Books, 2017-2018

What is the Battle of the Books?

The Ko'olauloa Battle of the Books is an afterschool, extra-curricular program for North Shore elementary school children that makes reading social. It's similar to a child's version of a quiz game show where teams of students compete for prizes to answer the most questions correctly books from pre-selected reading lists.

It is organized by the Kahuku Public and School Library and implemented by parent volunteers and supported by participating school staff. We are the only multi-school, face to face, interactive reading competition in Hawai'i for elementary school students.

In the past, the following school groups participated: Sunset Beach, Kahuku, Homeschool Families, La'ie, and Hau'ula Elementary Schools. During the 2016-2017, there were approximately 150 participants, 70 went on to the district competition (later broadcast on 'Olelo Local Access Television) held at Turtle Bay Resorts in April 2017.

Who can participate in the Battle of the Books?

Students in the 1st through 6th grades can compete in this program, as long as they have an adult coach(es) who can represent their team(s) at program meetings, lead team activities, and act as a liaison between the school administration, students, and the public library.

How does Battle of the Books work?

Adult volunteer coach(es) coordinate with elementary schools to promote, recruit, and organize teams. Each coach is responsible for creating a schedule that best fits their school. Since there are 3 divisions (Division I – 1st and 2nd grade; Division II – 3rd and 4th grade; Division III – 5th and 6th grade) a minimum of 3 coaches per school is advised. School librarians may put together a display of the books featured on this year's list. Multiple copies can also be found at the Kahuku Public and School Library.

Last year, coaches met once a month for the first couple months of the program and then increased meeting times to once a week leading up to the school and district competitions.

When does the 2017-2018 Battle of the Books start?

The program starts as soon as the reading list is released at the end of the 2016-2017 schoolyear. It will last until March/April 2018 when Kahuku Public and School Library will host its 3rd annual Ko'olauloa Battle of the Books District Competition. Students from the participating schools will need to win at their school level competitions in February/March 2018 to qualify for district competition in March/April 2018.

Does it cost anything to participate in the Battle of the Books?

This competition is completely free! School librarians, principals, and parents may consider purchasing extra copies of the Battle of the Books titles to accommodate more teams, but the titles can also be requested for free using the Hawaii State Public Library System. Please see reading list for special notes about out-of-print books and donated copies of a local book.

How were the books selected for the Battle of the Books?

The Kahuku Public and School Library modeled its program on America's Battle of the Books. Therefore some of the titles came from this national program. We customized the program to include Hawaiian/Pacific Islander books, local authors/illustrators, and to expand the program to 1st and 2nd graders, as well. The books were selected on the following criteria:

- input from existing Battle of the Books supporters, such as parent coaches, teachers, and contestants;
- award-winning literature for children;
- book availability in Hawaii or via online retail vendors (this year, special exception was made for 2 out-of-print books); and
- balance of genres (Historical Fiction/Humor/Classic/Fantasy/Graphic Novel/Biography).

Do students need to read all the Battle of the Books titles for their division?

No, students can read the titles that are suited for their reading level. Collectively, the team should have read all the books on their division list for the best chance at the school and district competitions.

What if my child finishes reading all the books on the list before the school competitions?

That's a good problem! Students who read all the books can still enjoy attending the team meetings where a variety of extension activities will be organized by team coaches AND quiz their team members to make their team stronger competitors AND participate in the evening activities organized by the Kahuku Public and School Library (TBA) AND reread their books to make sure they have a solid foundation of their book's settings, characters, plots, etc. until the school and district competitions.

Mahalo!
